

The process by which the new rules are being decided is flawed and the issue at hand is one of great importance. The rules under discussion should not be softened in the proposed manner and the matter should be open to public debate. Consolidated media power is a detriment to our democracy.